A main goal of this study is to understand people's social relationships. In this interview, we'll be asking you to tell us about the people you know.

- You'll tell us a first name and maybe also the last initial or a nickname, just so we can tell who is who.
- Some people you might want to name just once, others several times.
- All the names will be kept strictly confidential.

Wave 2 and Wave 3:

a2a_Intro

As the last time we interviewed you in [[INSERT DATE OF PREVIOUS INTERVIEW]], the main goal of this study is to understand people's social relationships. In this interview, we'll be asking you to tell us about the people you know now.

- You'll tell us a first name and maybe also the last initial or a nickname, just so we can tell who is who.
 - Some people you might want to name just once, others several times. Some you may have named in the last interview, too.
- All the names will be kept strictly confidential as is possible [the following was deleted in Wave 3 ...] as we explained in the Consent form.
- Please be sure to give us names or nicknames of specific people, not categories of people - for example, "Bill," but not "my family."

C. NETWORK: NAME DESCRIPTIONS

Note: By this point, the software has compiled a list of unique names from section A (spouse/partner; members of household) and Section B. It has checked to make sure each name is unique. There is a record line for each name and a variable indicating the specific question(s) which elicited it (and the rank order of its elicitation for each question that elicited it). The questions in Sections C and D provide further variables for each Name record. Those with no names mentioned skip to Section D.

The C variables can be found in the Names file only.

[Introduction:] You gave us the names of people important to you. Now, we'd like to know some more about each one.

C.1.a. [Web:] People can be connected to each other in a few different ways, even family members. Below is a list of ways that people can be connected to each other. When a name appears, please check all the ways that you are connected with this person these days. You might be connected with some people in more than one way. ______ <<1st name on Name List through nth name>>

[Int:] [SHOW CARD. Read off the answer list the first time; do not read answer list afterwards unless R needs help]. People can be connected to each other in a few different ways, even family members. Here is a list of the ways people can be connected. When I read a name to you, please tell me all the different ways that you are connected to that person nowadays.

What are all the ways that you that you are connected to _____ <<1st name on Name List through nth name>>?

D. NETWORK: DESCRIBING THE SUBSAMPLE OF NAMES

Note: Please see the full Documentation regarding the algorithm to select the sub-sample. The following paragraph describes the basic algorithm. It was used in the beginning of Wave 1, but, inadvertently, a variant was used for the second half of Wave 1 respondents and all of Wave 2 respondents. All of Wave 3 respondents received this original version.

Here we draw a subsample of up-to-five names for more intensive questioning. The names are drawn from six of the name-eliciting questions (listed below), excluding members of the household who are kin and or the spouse surrogate, but allowing non-kin roommates. The procedure takes the first name that qualifies (not a relative in household; not a partner in household) offered in answer to each of six questions in order. The questions for the names are prioritized as follows: first a name from "discuss personal matters" (B.4.a/c.); then, "help if sick" (B.7c/e.); "social activities" (B.2.a/c.); "seek advice" (B.5.a/c.), "respondent helps" (B.8.a/c.); "gets practical help" (B.6.b/d.). Six questions are provided, but the name selection process stops after five unique names are drawn. Where the first name has already been selected by this procedure (e.g., John was listed 1st in both "discuss personal matters" and "help if sick"), then we take the 2nd name in the second question; where the 1st and 2nd have been taken, take the 3rd name in the third (or fourth) question, etc. If there are no eligible names given in answer to a question (no names are given or all the names answered in that question have either been already selected or are excluded household members), then that the procedure moves on to the next question. The procedure stops once five eligible names have been taken or the last question ("gets practical help") has been examined. We should get a range of 0 (rarely) to 5 names for this section.

The D variables apply only to the names and can be found in the Names file only.

NAME-CHECKING QUESTIONS -- Names File Only.

In wave 2, the instrument matches all names listed by the respondent against the list imported from wave 1 and asks questions about names that were not re-listed in wave 2. In wave 3, the instrument does the same thing with regard to wave 2 names, but in addition looks back to wave 1 and asks about alters who were named in wave 1, not named in wave 2, and then re-listed in wave 3. Wave 3 also asks why any totally new alters were listed (if they were indeed totally new). Please check the codebook carefully, as the variable names for these name-checking variables are different in the codebook and questionnaire as they are not technically questionnaire items.
